

Passionate about your learning

At Zeal we are passionate about people development and specialise in designing high impact bespoke learning programmes. We have a track record of delivering successful tailored and customised learning solutions designed to meet specific business challenges and achieve real added value for our clients.

Our approach to programme design spans from 'lightly' tailored through to fully customised. Our programmes of learning and development are unique to our clients and can be flexibly designed to suit individual, team and/or organisational needs.

We also provide high quality ready-packaged learning solutions that are popular for promoting general awareness and understanding in areas of people development.

Quality assurance

Our aim in learning and development is simple: achieve individual and organisational effectiveness through the design and delivery of high impact learning solutions.

Whether tailor-made or ready-packaged the quality of what is delivered will never be compromised. We will always spend time understanding your needs so that we can guarantee your satisfaction with what is delivered.

We always build in success criteria and metrics from the outset, so we are able to ensure our world class programmes deliver measurable value. Our approach is characterised by:

- Understanding the required impact of learning
- Capturing relevant metrics to enable the impact and value of learning to be demonstrated
- We know how to make the link between people performance and the organisation's strategy and goals
- A robust design approach, which ensures that the learning is engaging, sustainable and applied in the workplace
- Expertise in evaluation and blending of learning methods
- Reliable working processes from initial design to delivery with assured quality, together with scale and speed where required
- A proven track record of innovation in learning – ensuring that even the most challenging subjects are practical, engaging and are applied in the workplace
- A robust project management approach which ensures that the client is fully involved at key stages, whilst focusing on the ease and efficiency of working in partnership

What do people have to say?

Many of our clients testify to the longer-term capabilities that they have developed through working with us. Here is what they have had to say:

"This was one of the best courses I have ever attended, I picked up some really practical tips on how to recognise and manage my own well-being at work" - Helen, Stress Management Training, 2006.

"Wow, what an eye opener. I never knew what evaluation meant until now. This programme has helped me to understand how I can apply some form of evaluation to programmes of training we have in the workplace" - David, Fast Track Evaluation, 2006.

"I'm as cynical as they come but must admit that this management development day has challenged me and my thinking. I have realised how important I am as a manager in motivating my staff and keeping them healthy and happy. Thanks guys. Mike, Supportive Management, 2007.

Venues and dates

In-house courses can be run at a venue to suit the client - either appropriate on-site training rooms or an external hotel or training centre, whilst public courses are run at a quality training centre, in London or Nottingham. For further information please contact us.
